Bishop Donal McKeown welcomes Pope Francis' Apostolic Exhortation Christ is alive

Bishop Donal McKeown of Derry has welcomed Pope Francis' Post-Synodal Apostolic Exhortation to young people and to the entire People of God, entitled Christus vivit (Christ is Alive). The publication represents planning, consultation and over three weeks of deliberation involving senior representatives of Bishops' Conferences from around the world who attended the Synod in the Vatican to discuss the theme 'youth, faith and vocational discernment' from 3 – 28 October last year. In Christus vivit, composed of nine chapters and divided into 299 paragraphs, Pope Francis says that he has been "inspired by the wealth of reflections and conversations of the Synod" on young people.

In response, Bishop McKeown said, "Christ is Alive is an accessible and inspiring document! The early publication of the document is a welcome sign that Pope Francis recognises the urgency of a renewed emphasis on creating new young disciples of Jesus." Dublin priest Father Fintan Gavin is new Bishop of Cork & Ross

Pope Francis has appointed Dublin priest, Father Fintan Gavin, as Bishop John Buckley's successor in the Diocese of Cork & Ross. Announcing the news in the Cathedral of Saint Mary & Saint Anne in Cork City, the Papal Nuncio, Archbishop Jude Thaddeus Okolo, described it as a special day in the life of the diocese.

Bishop-elect Gavin said that leaving his life and ministry in Dublin will not be easy. He said, "I was very happily serving the Church as an ordinary priest in the Archdiocese of Dublin during the last 27 years since I was ordained in various different ministries. And as a north-side Dubliner I would never have expected such trust to be placed in me by Pope Francis by asking me to serve as a humble servant leader, the People of God, the Body of Christ of the Diocese of Cork & Ross."
